June 2025

Words from the Senior Warden

May was an active month for St. Vincent's. We have celebrated Mothers' Day, and Memorial Day. In June there is Pentecost, and Father's Day. The Wednesday night social dinners continue in June.

I recently received an email from the Bishop's office. Bishop Scharf would like to visit St. Vincent's during 2026, and we are coordinating possible dates for his visit.

Well hurricane season is here! We will need to prepare the property for hurricanes though we know it will be another 100 years before the Tampa area experiences another hurricane! Russ Lynne will need some help in this preparation. Don't forget to pick up a copy of the emergency brochure checklist in the Narthex.

As you are aware Ruth Ann and Alice have retired from operating the thrift shop. A committee consisting of Berry Ludwig, Pamela McManus, Sara Powell, and Chelsea Henry will over-see the operation of the thrift shop.

Pamela and I will be out of the country from June 1st-June 18th. I can be contacted by email-mmcmamus100@yahoo.com.

Yours in Christ,

Mike McManus, Sr. Warden

 Prayer list cycle of prayer ***

The Vestry has decided that in order to keep our Prayer list current, the list will refresh quarterly (every three months). What this means is you will need to contact the office with your prayer list names every quarter to keep that person on the prayer list. There is also a sign-up sheet in the Narthex. This has become necessary to keep our prayer cycle current with the needs of those we are praying for. First cycle begins June 1st.

Saint of the Month

Wynfrith, nicknamed Boniface ("good deeds"), was born around 680 near Crediton in Devonshire, England. When he was five, he listened to some monks who were staying at his father's house. They had returned from a mission to the pagans on the continent, and Boniface was so impressed by them that he resolved to follow their example. Although his father had intended him for a secular career, he gave way to his son's entreaties and sent him at the age of seven to a monastery school. He eventually became director of the school at Nursling, in Winchester, where he wrote the first Latin grammar in England, and gave lectures that were widely copied and circulated.

At thirty, he was ordained and set out to preach in Friesland (overlaps with modern Holland), whence he was soon expelled because of war between its heathen king and Charles Martel of France.

Boniface, after a brief withdrawal, went into Hesse and Bavaria, having secured the support of the Pope and of Charles Martel for his work there. In Hesse, in the presence of a large crowd of pagans, he cut down the Sacred Oak of Geismar, a tree of immense age and girth, sacred to the god Thor. It is said that after only a few blows of his axe, the tree tottered and crashed to the ground, breaking into four pieces and revealing itself to be rotted away within. It was the beginning of a highly successful missionary effort, and the planting of a vigorous Christian church in Germany, where Boniface was eventually consecrated bishop. He asked the Christian Saxons of England to support his work among their kinsmen on the continent, and they responded with money, books, supplies, and above all, with a steady supply of monks to assist him in teaching and preaching. Boniface did not confine his attentions to Germany. He worked to establish cooperation between the Pope and others in Italy on the one hand and Charles and his successors in France on the other. He persuaded Carloman and Pepin, the sons of Charles, to call synods for the reform of the church in their territories, where under previous rulers bishoprics had often been sold to the highest bidder. He never forgot his initial failure in Friesland, and in old age resigned his bishopric and returned to work there. Many Frisians had been converted earlier by Willibrord (another Saxon missionary from England--see 7 Nov), but had lapsed after his death. Boniface preached among them with considerable success. On June 5, the eve of Pentecost, 754, he was preparing a group of Frisians for confirmation when they were attacked and killed by heathen warriors.

The historian Christopher Dawson estimates that he has had a greater influence on the history of Europe than any other Englishman.
